Family Tradition." The many tractor pulls featuring the National Tractor Pullers Association on Friday and Saturday, the talent contest and variety show on Monday and Tuesday respectively, and ice cream crank-off on Wednesday, the magician and Small Wonders Gymnastics on Thursday and the grand finale, the queen and princess contest on Saturday night will bring thousands of people together each evening for a good time.

Madonna Mawk shares her enthusiasm for talent show

When the annual Mooreland Free Fair Talent Contest begins, Madonna Mawk will be a hard person to find. You won't see her on stage introducing the acts or at the judges' table tallying the scores. You won't find her sitting in the chairs inside the pavilion that now sits where her school used to be. But make no mistake. She's here. She's there. She's everywhere - talking with the emcee about the contestants, talking with the sound man about a particular compact disk to be played, talking with the judge about the scoresheets, getting the buckets ready to pass for freewill donations, etc., etc.

The show goes on because Madonna goes on ...and on...and on. It is her energy that makes it

Cook and Waters Trio

The newest addition to this year's fair schedule is an outdoor concert.

The country singing group "Cook & Waters" will take the stage Wednesday evening (weather permitting) immediately following the horse pull.

happen year after year. It is her love of music and her love of community that has been the backbone of the event she created - the Mooreland Free Fair Talent Contest.

"I think it was her idea to have it," Lenora Brown said. "It's been a huge success."

Over the years, as many as 500 people have shared their talents on the Mooreland stage. Stirring solos, memorable groups, jugglers, comedians, pianists, gymnasts, cheerleaders, tap dancers and more have competed and entertained at this event.

In some ways, there has always been a part of all of the above in Madonna.

Mrs. Brown said she has known Madonna since the two were five years old.

"We've been friends for a long time," Mrs. Brown said. "We did about everything together when we were young."

They are both 1959 graduates of Mooreland High School, where Madonna was a cheerleader her senior year. She is still a cheerleader today, Saturday and drew a large crowd and a lot of compliments. We hope that you can join us in the grandstand on Wednesday night to see this entertaining group. Admission to the track will be $4.

Cook & Waters has been traveling for the past three years performing at various fair and festivals. Traveling with sound and lights, unless specified, and five piece band, Cook & Waters definitely creates the concert setting.

Pleasing all ages is very important, so entertaining grandchildren as well as grandmas, isn't hard for Cook & Waters. Growing up in gospel music has put a special love in their hearts so you'll definitely hear some select favorites. Cook & Waters believe in having fun, playing great country music, involving the crowd, and entertaining "like nobody's business."

In 2000 they opened for such artists as Charlie Daniels Band, Joe Diffie, Chad Brock and Ty Herndon. In 1999 they were chosen in the top five in the U.S. to perform at the Wild Horse Saloon in Nashville, Tenn.

Nashville recording artist Cook & Waters is a fabulous group of new country performers. They have recently recorded their debut CD entitled "What Have We Got to Lose." If you're looking for an evening of unforgettable entertainment then you must catch this "energetic trio."

Board generous with profits

Proceeds from Mooreland Fair benefit many area organizations

Thanks to the many people who attend events at the fair, play the games and ride the rides. The fair board has been able to give many organizations monetary gifts this year.

As a board we were able to give two $600 Dollars for Scholars scholarships; one to Jeremy Kissick and one to Philip Griffith. We also gave a $500 savings bond at the Blue River Valley Senior Girl May Tea to Ashley Peckinpah. The town council received $1,000 to help with the heating and air-conditioning in their new town building, and $2,600 to help pave the basketball court at the park. The fire department received $1,000 to help buy needed equipment and the Blue River Optimists received money to help with the Little League.

Hopefully the 62nd annual Mooreland Free Fair will be a great success so that we can continue to support these many organizations.

providing assistance and encouragement to each and every person who enters the talent contest. She also takes on the familiar roles of information gatherer (she is a former newspaper correspondent for The Muncie Star and The Courier-Times) as well as teacher (she taught Morristown and Union City for years.)

Before the contest begins, it's not uncommon to see Madonna working with a youngster on the piano, trying to get a song just right. Her love of music - which led her to learn to play the piano and sing in the church choir as a youth - is eagerly shared with contestants from age 5 to 75 who want to make a good showing.

And in the weeks leading up to the contest, Madonna is the primary person fielding entries and getting background information on the contestants.

As a result of her efforts, the Mooreland Talent Contest annually draws entrants not just from Henry County, but throughout the East Central Indiana area.

"Madonna is very good at carrying things out," Mrs. Brown said.

There's probably only one reason why Dick Clark, Casey Casem and Ed McMahon don't show up at the Mooreland Free Fair Talent Contest. They'd never be able to keep up with Madonna Mawk.
